- Sedans often feature four doors and two rows of seats.
- The ability to accommodate four or five passengers makes it a roomy, comfortable car for most drivers.
- The word "sedan" is thought to come from the Latin word "sedere", meaning "to sit".
- Sedans typically get better fuel mileage
- If you have an SUV and a sedan that use the same powertrain, the sedan will be more efficient.
- A car is lighter and more aerodynamic than an SUV, which provides an advantage to the smaller vehicle.

An SUV is built upon a broader and longer frame that offers higher ground clearance and increases overall size.

On the other hand, a Compact SUV is typically built on a smaller car-based frame with a more vertical design for a more spacious interior as well as having a unibody construction.

SUVs are large in size with big wheels and boast of different terrain capabilities.

SUVs are built with the combination of passenger cars with features of off-road vehicles.
